Editorial contributions

All content that is submitted for distribution across The Global Recruiter media platform will be considered for publication by the editor.

The editor will decide if content is fit for publication and decide where the content will be positioned. He will also make editorial adjustments where necessary to keep with house style of the magazine and website. If the editor deems the content to be marketing material e.g. the content is primarily centred around promotion of a business or service rather than being of general interest to readers, the material can still appear on the website or magazine at the editors discretion but will be subject to a publishing fee of £1,700.00 per article (max 750 words). This content will be passed to the sales team to contact the contributor and where published the title will be preceded with 'sponsored content'. Anything deemed not relevant, not current, not interesting, biased or not up to editorial quality will not be published.

The editor's decision is final. If you would like to write a commissioned article for the magazine and/or website then please email an outline of your suggestion to simon@theglobalrecruiter.com stating 'possible feature' in the email heading.

Recruitment Live Roundtables

The Global Recruiter's Recruitment Live roundtable discussion have established themselves as the place for discovering and discussing leading thinking in the recruitment industry. These are true roundtable discussions where invited recruitment business leaders and experts share, discuss and promote excellent practice in the industry.

Exclusive
Partnership

£5,000

Each session focuses on one aspect of the recruitment industry giving those in attendance the chance to share their experience, highlight challenges and suggest ways ahead both for businesses and for the wider industry. Those attending take away great new ideas and approaches for their work while the conversation is recorded and written up within the pages of The Global Recruiter monthly magazine.

Recruitment Live roundtable discussions can happen anywhere in the country or virtually, focus on any subject or any particular market sector of the industry. They provide a chance for industry leaders to give their views and voice their frustrations with aspects of the industry as well as meeting and networking with their peers.

The discussions have a flexible format. Some have been held over breakfast, others split into two sessions of one hour each with refreshments on hand at any time. Others have been held as evening events, providing an informal and attractive location for the discussion and additional time for networking and a more general chat. It is a format which can be tailored to suit time, location, attendees and topic. With the input from our partners and sponsors, we will work to a set agenda to cover issues that are directly affecting the industry.

One partner per session will have exclusive access to the event. They will be able to attend and participate in the discussion and have exclusive branding, literature and gifts in the room for the event. We will work closely with each sponsor to make sure that the roundtable content is relevant to their business, so that they can show their expertise in that field.

During refreshments, sponsors can network with the participants. After the events, The Global Recruiter will publish a written report which will appear across our media. Sponsors will then receive a sponsors statement and branding against the content and we will release it to the entire network.
